Launch of Trams to Newhaven passenger services

Download

The sun shone on Leith yesterday (Wednesday, 7 June) when passenger services on Edinburgh's new tram line to Newhaven were launched, with the help of the community along the route.

The first paying customers were able to board the service, operated by Edinburgh Trams, between Newhaven and Picardy Place (and onward to Edinburgh Airport) from 12pm.

To celebrate the occasion, a piper accompanied the first tram into the Picardy Place tram stop while members of Edinburgh's Dance Base performed a specially choreographed 'tram ballet' outside St Mary's Cathedral. The Council Leader then joined local school pupils to officially open the tram for service.

The 2.9 mile, eight stop route, which has been under construction since November 2019, has been delivered on schedule and within the £207.3m budget.

Over recent months rigorous testing to ensure the newly constructed line, software and signals work effectively and safely has included running trams at half and full speed and eventually to timetable, work to integrate signalling and interface with Edinburgh Trams' control centre and driver familiarisation.

Consultation launched on plans for new coastal town in the Capital

The creation of a £1.3bn connected and sustainable new coastal town at Granton Waterfront in Edinburgh has reached its next major phase.

The Proposal of Application Notice (PAN) to transform Edinburgh's largest brownfield site has been published today. The plans have been developed in partnership with Cruden Homes (East) Ltd. They include plans for over 700 net zero homes, of which at least 35% will be affordable, capacity for a primary school, commercial units, active travel routes and other sustainable transport infrastructure as well as attractive public and open space.

The Council would like to find out what people think about the plans for Phase 1 and have organised in-person events: Tuesday 13 June from 4pm to 7pm and Saturday 17 June from 11am to 2pm at the Granton Station building, 1 Granton Station Square. People will also be able to share their views online.

An online event will be held on Thursday 22 June from 6pm to 7.30pm and a 'You Said, We Did' event will be held in person on Wednesday 23 August from 4pm to 7pm at 1 Granton Station Square.

Call for apprentices as Council increases investment in homes

The City of Edinburgh Council is searching for apprentices and experienced tradespeople as part of a recruitment drive.

Adverts are now live for over 30 jobs and apprenticeships across a variety of roles as part of the council's plan to hire over 80 recruits in the housing service in the coming weeks.

Designed to boost inhouse capacity to maintain, improve and repair tenants' homes, the raft of positions will cover everything from plastering, painting and plumbing to carrying out emergency repairs. Opportunities are available to develop skills in joinery, gas engineering and to join the capital investment team.

Craft apprenticeships are available which will provide budding tradespeople with the opportunity to earn a qualification and learn new skills while being paid. Every role forms part of a team with lots of support and mentoring and a college place to become fully qualified.

Graduate apprenticeships have also been created which will involve working within the council's surveying team and attending university to gain a BSc (Hons) in Construction and the Built Environment. Successful applicants will learn design skills, contract and risk management and financial costings.
